Craig Fahle returns to broadcasting via New Radio Media

Former WDET-FM host Craig Fahle has returned broadcasting this week with the debut of “The Craig Fahle Show” on New Radio Media. The internet radio station can be heard via a smartphone app or at newradiomedia.com. Fahle’s show will air 11 a.m.-noon and will cover current events, politics and business affecting Metro Detroit and Michigan. Former 97.1 The Ticket personality Bill McAllister also rolled out a daily show on New Radio Media this week. “At Home with the McAllisters” is hosted by McAllister and his wife, Danielle Carlomusto, in the 8-10 a.m. slot. In between, “Pop That Culture” with Sara Fouracre and Joe Santos will air 10-11 a.m. beginning April 9.

Tiffany Haddish says Beyoncé was bitten on the face

In an interview with GQ published Monday, comedian Tiffany Haddish told an interesting story about the time she was at a party where Beyoncé and Jay Z were also in attendance. Haddish claims that an unnamed actress bit the singer on the face at the party. Beyoncé’s rep wouldn’t comment, and said she had no knowledge of the event. Haddish said she offered to fight the biter, but Beyoncé told her to “have fun” instead.

Rocker Jesse Hughes slams march protests

Eagles of DeathMetal singer Jesse Hughes took to Instagram to express his disgust for the March for Our Lives protest. Hughes and his band were on stage at the Bataclan music venue in Paris the night in 2015 when terrorists stormed in and killed 89 people. “As the survivor of a mass shooting I can tell you from first-hand experience that all of you protesting and taking days off from school insult the memory of those who were killed and abuse and insult me and every other lover of liberty by your every action,” he wrote. “Long live rock and roll,” he added. “And may everyone of these disgusting vile abusers of the dead live as long as possible so they can have the maximum amount of time to endure their shame.” Hughes posted again not apologizing but expressing regret for mixing politics with music and said he’d start a separate Instagram for his “political beliefs.”

Ron Jeremy cleared of charges

Adult film actor Ron Jeremy has been cleared of sexual assault charges that stemmed from a September 2017 incident involving a promotional model who said Jeremy groped her. According to Page Six, four former and current adult film stars have also accused Jeremy of assault. He denies all accusations.
